GENERAL HARRISON IS DYING

LYING IN A COMATOSE CONDITION BUT MAY LIVE SEVERAL HOURS.

During the Night He Gave No Sign of Recognition of Those About Him or that He Was Suffering Greatly.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Indianapolis, March 13.—General Harrison is lying this morning in a comatose state, which is a sure forerunner of death. He was unconscious all through the night, with occasional periods of delirium. His strength has failed rapidly, and now all hope is abandoned, and he is dying. Respiration is maintained by artificial means, oxygen being administered. But his physicians realize that even this will not prolong life, and there is no hope.

MAY LIVE SEVERAL HOURS.

Indianapolis, March 13.—Three physicians are working over General Harrison. The patient has weakened perceptibly, though manifesting vitality, but his heart is gradually showing the strain. It is not apprehended that he will die for several hours, although it is impossible to say what the next few hours may develop.

CONDITION UNCHANGED.

Indianapolis, March 13.—At noon there had been no material change in General Harrison's condition since morning. The oxygen treatment is administered regularly. He gave no signs during the night of recognition of those about him or that he was suffering greatly.

SOLDIER AND WIDOW.

A Rich Californian Fell in Love With a North Carolinian and Followed Him Home.

A Goldsboro Special to the Charlotte Observer says that J. W. Williamson, of Mount Olive, and Mrs. P. S. Carlis, of California, if not already man and wife, are to be wed very soon. Williamson having done two years service in the Philippines, returning to his home, stopped some weeks in California where Mrs. Carlis became infatuated with him. Williamson, a few weeks since, came to Mount Olive, to be followed later by the widow to claim him as her own. Since Saturday the couple have been guests at the Kennon Hotel, this city. Yesterday they telegraphed Williamson's parents at Mount Olive that they were married here. Today the couple boarded the westbound train for some point in Colorado. Mrs. Carlis says they will stop en route tomorrow and be married.

The woman is reported to be quite wealthy, owning a large estate in California and a profitable mining interest in Colorado. She seems to have plenty of cash and is paying all expenses. She is a woman of culture. With her is her child, a little boy 8 years old. The little fellow is very bright and talks quite freely. His mother claims that Mr. Carlis is dead, but the child says his father is alive and resides at Cape Nome. The woman claims that her love for Williamson is heaven-born and that she cannot live without him and she is amply able to provide for him. Williamson is about 25 years of age. The woman is older.

Got the Wrong Phone.

This morning a gentleman who needed some "spirits" at home hurriedly rang up Central and asked for a certain one of the bars. As soon as the connection was made he yelled out: "Hello, there, this is ——; send me a quart of Holland gin, and a pint of rye whiskey quick!"

The answer came, slow but a little nervous and confused, as if the man at the other end of the phone didn't exactly understand the situation. "I'll do nothing of the kind!"

"You won't? What's the matter? Who is that, anyhow?"

"This is ——." And he named one of the best known prohibitionists in this section. Central had simply made a mistake.

Mr. Herbert Leak has accepted a position with the City National Bank.

TEXTILE SCHOOL ESTABLISHED

THE HOUSE UNANIMOUSLY VOTES $10,000 FOR THE PURPOSE.

The Senate Devoted All Day to the Revenue Bill and Made Material Changes. Senators Will Receive Pay When Sitting as Judges.

Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, March 13.—Bills have passed the House giving the Governor the power to appoint directors of the blind institute; to appropriate ten thousand dollars this year and a like sum the next year for a textile school at the Agricultural and Mechanical College. The latter passed unanimously.

An appropriation of sixty-five thousand and annually for the Insane Asylum here and five thousand for each of two years, was agreed on as a compromise.

The Senate devoted nearly all of the session to the revenue bill, mainly the banking section.

There were new and material changes.

THE PAY OF SENATORS DISCUSSED YESTERDAY.

The House bill came up at 12:30 to pay the court of impeachment $4 per day, says the correspondent of the Charlotte Observer.

Senator Justice said the bill had been carefully discussed four times by the judiciary committee and they had called in different lawyers and asked their disinterested opinion as to its constitutionality. He said if it was decided that the Senate could sit as a court of impeachment after the Legislature had adjourned the whole question was solved.

He discussed the question from a constitutional standpoint. The constitution says that the members of the General Assembly shall receive $4 per day as members but it does not provide that they cannot serve in a different capacity and receive pay. For years a legislative committee has been paid to come to Raleigh every December and examine the books of the State Auditor and Treasurer and receive $4 per day. The Supreme Court has upheld this and it shows plainly that members can serve in another manner.

The constitution says: "The court for impeachment shall be the Senate." When the Senators take the oath they are separated from the legislative and become a part of the judicial branch of the government. Therefore, according to the view of a majority of the judiciary committee, the Senate can draw pay in their separate and distinct capacity as a court. Senator Justice had hesitated as a matter of delicacy but it seemed plain to him as a matter of law. The oath taken in the court of impeachment is different from the oath as a Senator.

Senator Henderson would have been glad if he could have reached the same conclusion as a majority of the judiciary committee but he found no precedent for it in North Carolina. Never in the history of the State had the Senate sat apart from the House of Representatives. If one adjourns then the other adjourns. If the House of Representatives is supposed to present throughout the trial of impeachment; they are the prosecutors. The constitution prescribes that upon the verdict each Senator's name is called and he answers as a Senator and it requires two-thirds of the Senators present to convict. He argued that the Senate could not sit apart from the House and in those states where the Senate did sit after the adjournment of the House the Senators were not all elected at one time. The constitution is clear that Senators draw their pay as Senators and in the court of impeachment the Senators are still Senators, are ever so addressed, and cannot receive pay after 60 days.

Senator Woodward said no more delicate matter had arisen or a more responsible duty. The House has imposed upon the Senate the weight of this trial. He discussed the matter from a legal standpoint. If the constitution means anything when it says that the legislative, judicial and executive branches of the government shall be kept forever separate and distinct it means that the court of impeachment is apart from the General Assembly. The law prescribes that a man is entitled to speedy trial by his peers and prescribes the Senators for this jury. If there is no precedent, certainly here is the law and let this Senate make the precedent for the future.

The Senate did not invite this responsibility but it should not shirk any duty. He cited the case of the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment in Kansas separate from the House. He was tired of hearing the Holden, or any other case held up as a criterion here. This Senate should decide.

In the afternoon the discussion was resumed.

Vann offered an amendment that the president of the Senate received a per diem of $6. Adopted.

The resolution passed second and third reading, ayes 37, nays 11. Upon third reading those voting in the negative were: Messrs. Alexander, Foushee, Glenn, Henderson, Leak, Lindsay, London, Long, Marshall, Morrison, Webb.

The resolution from the House for the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people caused Senator Woodward to demand a roll call on third reading, saying he was opposed to tearing down what had stood the test of years. The resolution was adopted, 23 to 12, the latter being Craig, Buchanan, Glenn, Long, McAlister, Miller, of Caldwell; Morton, Pinnix, Speight, Thomas, Vann and Woodward.

Safe Fell on His Foot.

Mr. Milton Cunningham is out today after being confined to his home for some time with a badly mashed foot. He was superintending the job of moving a safe belonging to the Greensboro Wine & Liquor Company, and in unloading it from the wagon, one of the skids gave way. This caused the safe to fall to one side and one of the rollers came down on Mr. Cunningham's foot with the force of about eight hundred pounds, and severely mashed four of his toes.

Although much improved he is still unable to walk on that foot yet, and will limp for some time.

An Old Document.

Mr. R. M. Middleton, of this city, recently returned from his old home in Duplin county. While there he found among a lot of his father's old papers, a copy of President Th: Jefferson's inaugural, delivered Nov. 8, 1804. The document is much shorter than those of its kind of the present day. It is printed on a poster, which says: "We anticipate the regular period of issuing the National Intelligencer, to give the earliest possible publicity to the President's message."

Took the Wrong Train.

Three ladies, evidently a mother and her two daughters, came in from Asheville at noon yesterday en route to Pinehurst. Either carelessly or by wrong direction they got on the Winston train instead of the Sanford one. When the conductor started to take up tickets their mistake was discovered, but it was fortunate that the train had not passed Pomona. Here they got off and phoned to town for a carriage. Of course they did not get back in time to pursue their journey yesterday.

A Retail Carpet Store.

It was mentioned in The Telegram yesterday that the Southern Import and Commission Company would occupy the building next to and in the rear of Ward's drug store. Their offices will be in the rear of the building only. The front of the building will be occupied by Mr. J. N. Leak who will open a retail carpet and house furnishing store. Mr. Leak knows the business and will run a first class store.

A Pleasant Occasion.

The Misses May entertained a number of their friends in an informal manner at their home on North Forbiss street yesterday evening. Several couples were present and spent a very pleasant evening.

The marriage of Miss Leslie Pleasants, of Greensboro, to Rev. J. Q. Adams, of Reidsville, is announced for Wednesday, March the twenty-seventh. —Biblical Recorder.

A HORRID CRIME IN BROOKLYN

A PRETTY YOUNG GIRL DRUGGED AND RUINED.

Three Young Men the Authors of the Fearful Deed—Unconscious After the Crime but Identified Two of the Wretches.

New York March 12.—Unconscious, and the physicians say, dying, Mary Paige, the pretty 16-year-old daughter of C. H. Paige, lies at her father's home, Brooklyn, the victim of assault. Since she was found yesterday morning, wandering in the streets it is said she has been conscious only a few minutes, when she managed to grasp out that she had been lured to a livery stable by three young men, forced to drink a drug drink and then assaulted by the three. The police acted promptly after the girl's father had reported to them. This afternoon they arrested George Abbott, Jr., 17 years old, of Brooklyn. He admitted knowing Mary, said he had taken her for a walk Sunday night and that two young men had joined them, but declared that he knew nothing about her having been drugged, and denied that there had been any assault. He gave the names of the two other youths, and on Miss Paige's complaint warrants were sworn out for them. Late this afternoon the detectives took a young man to the Adams street police station, where he made affidavit before Magistrate Erenner. The detectives said the youth was a most important witness in the case. They would not permit him to talk.

This evening young Abbott was taken before Mary Paige and fully identified by her as the one who had given her the supposed drugged liquor and assaulted her. The girl's condition was very much improved tonight and the attending physician says there is little doubt of her recovery.

Exploded on Mountain Side.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Wilkesbarre, March 13.—An engine on the Lehigh Valley exploded this morning at Mudrum, killing three persons.

The engine was drawing the train up the mountain when the explosion occurred. The body of the engine was lifted from the tracks and the wheels flung high up in the air, falling into the Lehigh river, and smashing through the ice. The tender remained on the track, and the train ran some time. The bodies of the three men killed were blown far from the wreck. The killed were the engineer, fireman, and brakeman.

Laid Out Terms of Peace.

By Wire to The Telegram.

London, March 13.—It was understood that the British cabinet, at its meeting today, considered, among other things, the negotiations now proceeding between Kitchener and Botha, and formulated instructions for Kitchener, which defined on broad lines the terms on which a peace settlement might be made.

President Diaz Dying.

By Wire to The Telegram.

El Paso, Texas, March 13.—According to reports received here and published in both Spanish and American papers, the end of President Diaz is regarded as critical notwithstanding the official denial.

The news received here is that President Diaz is dying of a slow poison and the papers here give full credence to the report.

RUSSIA MAKES AN OBJECTION

DOESN'T WANT MINOR CHINESE PUNISHED EVEN IF GUILTY.

This Unexpected Proposal is Believed to be in Return for China's Cession of the Northern Part of the Empire to the Bear.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Pekin, March 13.—The ministers held a meeting today and discussed the question of the punishment for the provincial officers who are regarded as responsible primarily for the Boxer trouble and directly implicated in the massacre of missionaries and converts.

To the surprise of everybody the Russian representative appeared as the opponent of any further punishment of Chinese officers, no matter how guilty they may have been. This is the first decided break in the concert of powers, as the Russian representative got his orders from St. Petersburg. This is understood to be in return for China's signature to the agreement recognizing Russian predominance in the whole northern part of the empire. The Chinese peace commissioners have attempted to minimize the importance of this agreement, in the hope, it is thought, of provoking discord among the ministers.

NINETY-SIX TO BE PRESETED.

Pekin, March 12.—A general meeting of the foreign ministers was held today at which reports of committee were heard. Regarding the punishment of the Chinese connected with Boxers there is strenuous opposition against demanding many more heads, but a list containing the names of ninety-six minor officials will shortly be presented to Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang, urging that they be tried for complicity in the outrages and punished when found guilty, in such manner as the Chinese themselves see fit, except in the case of six men, who, the ministers think, should be executed.

The report of the committee on the general principles on which indemnity claims should be considered was adopted. Those claims which are palpably unjust will be disallowed.

Mr. Rockhill's proposition providing daily meeting of the ministers will be followed so far as practicable. When any minister is unable to attend meetings the meeting will not take place. Otherwise the meetings will take place daily.

The report of the committee on Legation Quarters Defenses will probably be considered tomorrow. Though the committee has declined to notify the Chinese owners of property confiscated, the register of claims of the ministers will probably, where just, see that the amount involved is added to the total of the general indemnity.

The ministers will soon meet Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang to consider resolutions regarding public buildings and grounds.

Moved.

The furniture store of W. J. Ridge & Co. has been moved to South Elm street, beyond the railroad. The moving was completed today. South Greensboro is coming rapidly.

Good Tobacco Sales.

There were big sales on the tobacco warehouse floors this morning. The damp weather has made a good season and the farmers came in lively.

Railroad Employees Forbidden to Drink Whiskey.

Dubuque, Ia., Dispatch.

The superintendent of the Dubuque division of the Chicago Great Western Railroad, has issued a sweeping order to its employees, which has caused a sensation. In effect it prohibits them from using intoxicant liquor in any form or at any time. It applies to trainmen, station agents, foremen and others who hold responsible positions. It prohibits them from entering saloons or using liquor, on or off duty. The penalty for any violation of this rule is immediate discharge of the offender. The order also commands all employees to pay their honest debts. Any failure to do so will cause their immediate discharge, unless a reasonable excuse can be given.

SIMPLICITY
IN DAILY LIFE.

BY SHAWEN.

Simplicity of living is man's ideal state. Monarchs have yielded to its charm to an extent almost ludicrously incompatible with the regal ceremonies that once were wont to hedge the daily life of a king. The solemn Pontiff of the Vatican has shorn his life of all display, and whilst he must deny himself somewhat with ceremonies from too free audience with his visitors, in order to direct the affairs of his office, he lives in simplicity in accord with nature, as any country squire.

The sincerely humble cannot be otherwise than simple in their living. It is not far along the highway of aristocracy where those who move thereon part with the sincerities and take up the insincerities of social intercourse. Only inordinate vanity can persevere in the mockeries of insincerity. Some people of good sense are drawn into the meshes, but they get out again. Those hopelessly entangled in them are to be likened to the daring persons who walk into a puzzle of hedge plants, unable to thread their way out, and laughed at by the spectators whom they amuse.

As between the affections and discriminations of a vainglorious aristocracy, and the simplicity of social conditions wherein distinctions are such as naturally arise, the latter is beyond question rational basis, and we of this time are more highly blessed than any of our antecedents in the unrivaled democracy of existing social conditions.

Simplicity reigns. May it reign forever! But in this, as in all human excellencies, its very fineness requires the greater care and vigilance against abuse.

The ordinary mind confuses simplicity with vulgarity, and mistakes courtesy for familiarity.

Simplicity is the twin with refinement; it has the utmost consideration for others; it will not deceive, nor disimulate, neither will it tremble nor be afraid.

Who has it? The rough man, whose greeting is "Hello."

The acquaintance of yesterday who is familiar today.

The sloven person who says: "I care not for dress."

The uneducated man who superfluously avows his lack of learning and then hurls his dogmas at you?

The man who invites you to his table and eats with his coat off?

No; those are vulgar people. Unfortunately, too, they are as plentiful as the fish in the sea.

Often plainness is confused with simplicity. They have no more in common than sunshine and a blacksmith's bellows.

The finest simplicity this country has ever known was among the good people of the South before the war. Chivalry that flourished then was only the simplicity of elegance, and elegance only the outward evidence of refined sensibilities.

Is it a popular quotation that no man is a hero to his valet? I will ask those who remember slave days, if they have ever known, since then, any man to enjoy such heartfelt admiration as old-time negroes used to manifest for their masters when those masters were of the true quality of Southern gentlemen?

What constituted the excellence of the Southern gentleman?

He was a man of simple manners, but included in that simplicity were sincerity and elegance. He rode well, drove well, hunted well, managed his affairs well, read well, thought well, lived well, did well.

Another confusion about simplicity is that it means to be phlegmatic and uninteresting. The best simplicity is cordial in manner and words, hearty in its interest in men and events, tolerant of the ideas and sensibilities of others, just with men, gentle with women, tender with children, and the staunch friend of truth.

GAMBLING WORSE THAN DRINK.

Progressive Farmer.

An exchange says:

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbot strikes a true note when he calls attention to the death-dealing influence of the gambling influence now so prevalent in our country. He holds that this evil is doing infinitely more harm than strong drink, and fearlessly points out the important fact that it makes no particular difference whether the gambling is done by cards or by stocks. The great clergyman insists that he would seek to get something for nothing is dishonest, whether he does it so as to render himself liable for the penitentiary or not. It is indeed a bright and hopeful sign of the advent of a higher moral consciousness when leading clergymen and editors have the manhood and courage thus boldly to strike the keynote of ethical progress. The 20th century must work for the realization of the ideal hinted at in the noble utterances of this distinguished divine."

And just here we rise to say that this gambling instinct is being materially promoted and encouraged by the guessing contests now being conducted under the auspices of the so many otherwise reputable newspapers.

The principle governing them is exactly the same as that which controlled the Louisiana lottery. If the authorities found a way of stopping it, they should find some way of breaking up the nefarious and demoralizing guessing contests now being used to deceive the unwary and to encourage the all too prevalent spirit of gambling.

We trust that our postoffice authorities will give some attention to the matter.

BUDDING LAWYER AND FIRST CLIENT.

Philadelphia Record.

This is a true tale of the Budding Lawyer and his First Client: Their meeting was quite by chance. The Budding Lawyer had not yet hung out his shingle. The First Client had been accused of stealing and pawning a watch, and his employer, who was a neighbor of the Budding Lawyer, sent for him and explained the situation. "He has been my coachman for ten years," said the neighbor. "He is perfectly honest." The Budding Lawyer took the case, and had a long talk with the First Client, who was a colored man. The Judge was much pleased with the Budding Lawyer's earnestness, but he believed the prisoner guilty, and did not hesitate to tell the jury so. The First Client went to jail for three months, and the Budding Lawyer felt that his career was blasted. Day and night the terrible miscarriage of justice haunted him. He did not hang out his shingle. Three months passed slowly, and he was walking dejectedly through a public square the other day when he came face to face with the First Client looking prosperous and well fed. A terrible suspicion resolved itself into a ray of hope. The First Client tried to dodge him, but it was too late. "I s'pose you am afaah youah fee, Mistah Lawyah, but you see—." "Never mind the fee it is nothing," said the Budding Lawyer. "But tell me this; did you steal that watch?" The First Client was silent for a moment, and then said: "Mistah Lawyah, de less we say 'bout dat do betta." A great load seemed lifted from the breast of the Budding Lawyer. He became a new man, hung out his shingle and is now cheerfully waiting for the second client.

A GOOD COUGH MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN.

"I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says F. P. Moran, a well known and popular baker of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, also whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children as it contained no opium or other harmful drug." Sold by C. E. Holton.

clear my skin, my face was in a horrible condition literally covered with red spots, pimples, blackheads, moth patches and freckles. And whenever the weather changed eczema, chap and salt rheum added to my misery. I suffered a thousand deaths, and when I sent for a trial of Mme. Ribault's beautifiers just as I had done before time and again with other advertised remedies. I did not expect any results, imagine my surprise when the next day all redness and soreness were gone. At the end of a week my skin began to clear, the freckles and moth patches disappeared and the eczema and salt rheum were completely cured. I improved so wonderfully that my friends did not recognize me, so quickly had the change taken place. My skin is now perfectly lovely and there is not a blemish or wrinkle anywhere.

I hope all ladies will at least try these marvelous beautifiers."

Do not delay but write immediately. The treatment is harmless, a natural beauty maker and will permanently remove all tan, freckles, moth patches, pimples, blackheads, flesh worms, sunburn, chaps, roughness and any and all skin imperfections no matter what they may be.

Write to-day without fail and the free treatment will be mailed prepaid with full directions and all particulars absolutely free. Address, MME. M. RIBAULT, 3358 Elsa Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13.

THE LIFE SAVERS.

The Wilmington Messenger refers very appreciatively to the work of the life saving service on the coast, and calls it the friend of humanity, and says:

The naked figures in cold type fail to reveal all that should be known of this most excellent, admirable service. The published records of 1900 show this:

Number of disasters..... 693
Value of property involved... $9,737,260
Value of property saved... 7,491,466
Number of persons involved 3,453
Number of persons lost 53
Shipwrecked sailors succored at stations 75
Number of vessels totally lost 661

Of the 53 lost, 27 were sailors who tried to escape in their own boats, instead of awaiting the life-savers. There were also 595 persons who were rescued from extreme danger due to other cause. There were 445 stranded vessels that were floated off, repaired and piloted out of danger by the life saving crews; 611 vessels and small craft were saved from stranding by the warning lights of the patrolmen and 1,070 were brought ashore from wrecked vessels in the boats of the service, by the breeches buoy and otherwise. All can see the extent and value of such work done form these figures, and be it said, all this was accomplished for humanity's sake at a comparatively trifling cost—but $1,441,000. The men engaged should be well paid, better paid.

Our contemporary speaks justly for these men and their great service to humanity. The lives of these men are spent in constant peril and their efforts for others are marvelous. The cold figures indeed tell nothing of the danger in which they live. The ocean is their field, the storm their antagonist, and they brave its fury with a positive pleasure in carrying succor to the despairing voyagers, who, tossed on wave and wrecked upon rock, look to God and the life savers for a hope to escape going to the bottom forever.

The Legislature of Delaware has adjourned without having elected either of the two Senators which it should have elected. The defeat of Addicks, the gas mogul who undertook to exploit the little State for the promotion of himself into a seat in the Senate of the United States, is considered a victory for the integrity of the Legislature and for public morality. Mr. Addicks is said to be one of the dogs who believe that money will buy anything, but he has clearly stumbled upon the information that some men have no price.

Come out for the circus because you like it, the people will take care of themselves while looking at the animals.

A JEALOUS LOVER SEEKS REVENGE.

Philadelphia Record.

Love, jealousy, revenge and an infernal machine figured in a case of attempted murder, the details of which were brought out yesterday in the Central Police Court, where Frederick Miller was arraigned before Magistrate Kochersperger, charged with having sent a death-dealing explosive to Miss. Florence Benkert, of No. 226 North Ninth street. The young woman lives with Miss Elsie West, with whom Miller is said to be madly in love.

When Miss West informed her lover that her attentions to her were no longer desired Miller is said to have placed the blame for the young woman's attitude toward him upon the Benkert girl. On Saturday afternoon she received a mysterious looking package through the mail, addressed, it is alleged, in characters which strongly resemble Miller's writing.

Taking off the wrapping she found a small pasteboard box around which was a piece of white paper, upon which was written the following note:

"I send you my best wishes, and also this music box. Wind it ten times and it will play 'My Old Kentucky Home.'

Hoping that will help you in passing away many happy hours, allow me to remain your friend, James."

TOOK BOX TO THE POLICE.

A small piece of steel in the form of a handle protruded through the side of the box. The young woman, however, became suspicious, and when she showed the box to Miss West it was decided to take it to the police. The two young women started to the Sixth district police station with the mysterious box. House Sergeant Marshall discovered that it was filled with gunpowder, and to the piece of steel which passed through the box had been fastened four matches, so arranged that by turning the handle they would rub against the sand paper which lines the inside of the box and ignite.

The infernal machine was placed in water and afterwards taken to the City Hall by Special Policeman Garr and Gregory, where it was examined by Chief Miller and Superintendent Quirk. The two young women declared they suspected Miller of having sent the machine, and search was at once begun for him, which resulted in his arrest, at Ninth and Vine streets, by Detective Bond and the two policemen on Sunday afternoon.

The arrest was kept a close secret, and the prisoner was subjected to a severe examination, the police hoping that he might confess. Miller, however, stoutly declared his innocence, and said that it was a scheme to put him in prison. He is employed in a Market street restaurant as a waiter. The two women are also employed in a restaurant.

The Magistrate held him in $2,500 bail for further examination next Monday.

General Nathaniel Greene.

Chicago Tribune.

The finding of the remain of Major General Nathaniel Greene in a vault at Savannah, Ga., on Monday last, dispels a belief of over century's standing that the body of Washington's friend and right-hand man, and one of the greatest figures of Revolutionary history, was spirited away soon after it was buried. The man whose military ability has been compared by historians with that of Turenne and Wellington, was interred in an unmarked vault, and the story that the remains had been secretly removed, which gained circulation soon after the burial, was generally believed. The finding of the remains on Monday was due to the efforts of the Rhode Island Society of the Cincinnati, of which General Greene was the first President. General Greene's achievement at Brandywine in September, 1777, when he marched his men five miles in forty-five minutes, and by his quick action saved Washington's army from destruction by a superior force, and his maneuver a year later, when he drew Cornwallis 200 miles away from his base and forced him into a battle, which although victory for Cornwallis, was hardly less fatal to him than defeat, rank among the greatest tactical accomplishments in which American soldiers have participated.

There is a monument to General Greene in Washington, erected in 1876—ninety years after it had been voted by Congress—and another at Savannah, where he passed the last few years of his life. General Greene was 41 years old at his death, and died from the effects of a sunstroke.

A LOVER'S DECEPTION.

Underhand Scheme by Which He Got His Girl to Acknowledge That She Loved Him.

The young man in love is an interesting creature. Given a sympathetic listener, he will tell many things in a voice that is awed, because what he is telling seems so holy to him, says the Philadelphia Record. Such a young man said: "I couldn't feel sure my girl really cared for me, so I wrote myself this telegram: 'Will you go as accountant for tea firm to China at salary of $60 per week? Start Thursday. Answer at once.' I signed the name of a fictitious firm, and showed the girl the telegram as soon as I got to her house that night.

"She read it, and then she looked at me, gravely. 'What do you think about it?' she asked. 'I don't know what to think,' said I. She mused a little while. 'Do you want to go?' she asked me. 'If it wasn't for you I'd want to go,' I answered. Then she said, in a faint voice: 'Do whatever you think best.' 'Ed go if it wasn't for you,' I replied.

"She sat very still, looking at the fire. Then all of a sudden she began to cry. 'Oh, don't go! don't go!' she wailed. 'Don't go and leave me alone. What would I do—what would I do—without you?' So I told her I wouldn't go. It is a grand thing to have a girl care for you so much as that. I know that this girl loves me truly."

"If I had been the girl," said the young man's listener, "I should have said: 'Accept the offer, and we'll be married at once and start for China together.' The young man grinned. "Gosh! I hadn't thought of that," he admitted. "Wouldn't I have been in a fix, though, if she had said that?"

Travel.

When the physician prescribed travel abroad the beautiful invalid filled as to her eyes with tears.

"It is impossible!" she sighed. "Will not travel in this country answer?"

"Possibly," replied the man of medicine, with manifest reluctance; "provided you are extremely careful to call your baggage 'luggage' and the brakeman 'guard!'" —Puck.

What the "Spectator," February 7th, 1901, of New York,

A Leading Insurance Publication and Authority on Life Insurance, Has to Say About the State Life Insurance Company of Indianapolis :

This company is a striking example of the fact that it is possible in these days of fierce competition in life insurance to build up a life insurance company possessed of financial strength without having to call upon stockholders for capital or ask assistance from the State. The State Life of Indianapolis is a mutual company organized in the latter part of 1894, and its sixth annual statement shows that it has already passed quite a number of companies, many of which were in existence twenty years ago. The following table of comparative growth is, in most respects, a record breaker, not a single company in its first six years having accumulated so much insurance in force, and but a very few having built up their assets so rapidly:

Year	Insurance in Force	Assets	Liabilities	Surplus
1895.....	$3,584,500	$18,300	$15,868	$2,422
1896.....	7,859,500	58,770	45,483	13,287
1897.....	15,885,500	150,891	88,275	62,616
1898.....	17,049,000	236,645	152,037	107,088
1899.....	22,308,470	417,781	256,246	161,334
1900.....	28,339,877	671,380	409,504	261,775

It will be observed that there has been no break in the onward progress of the company, each year having been better than the preceding. Last year was a particularly good year, the increase being: In insurance force, $6,131,407; in assets, $53,709, and in surplus, $100,241. From the first the company has maintained the full four per cent. reserve, although it was not required until it re-incorporated under the law of Indiana, passed in 1899, which permitted the organization of old line companies in that State. Its reserve is deposited with the State under the provisions of the compulsory deposit law, and it is worth noting that its deposit now amounts to $500,000, which is over $90,000 more than the law actually requires.

The company is now working in twenty-nine States and Territories, the officials of eight of which have examined its affairs and given unqualified endorsement to its methods. Its officers have demonstrated their ability, and the State Life must be reckoned with as an important factor in the life insurance field.

"Stock Companies with large capital, by using the interest on their capital, to increase assets, have an insurmountable advantage over purely mutuals in their early years—except on this one point the State Life leads the world's records, on every desirable feature.

Died in Church.

Raleigh Times.

The wife of Dawson Pulley, a well-known and highly respected colored woman, dropped dead in church yesterday afternoon. There was the usual large Sunday crowd at Mt. Pleasant Colored Baptist church at Falls, N. C. Rev. W. W. Jones, the pastor, had preached a particularly moving sermon, and the congregation was shouting and singing. Dawson's wife had shouted for some time, and went up to the pulpit to shake hands with the minister. She shook hands with the preacher and several of the members, then turned to go to her seat. Dr. Thompson, who lives at the falls, was in the congregation, and went to her side at once. He examined her and pronounced her dead, saying that death had resulted instantaneously from heart failure. The sudden departure of the woman caused great excitement among the congregation, who were awed by the visitation of the death angel.

She leaves a number of children. Her husband died several months ago. The funeral took place this afternoon at the church in which she died.

Trousers for a No-legged Man.

Philadelphia Record.

'I have an aunt, a dear old soul, who does the most remarkable things in the name of charity,' said Malcolm Williams yesterday. 'She always has some starving family to attend to. She would be at quite a loss without a starving family. Sometimes I know she is dreadfully imposed upon, but you couldn't convince her of that. One day last week she came to me and said: "Malcolm have you an old pair of trousers you don't want?"' What do you want a pair of trousers for?' I asked. 'To give to a poor man who hasn't any legs she replied. It was all I could do to keep from laughing in her face, but I controlled myself and said: "Why, yes, I can let them have a pair of trousers, and an old pair of shoes, too." Even then the absurdity of it didn't strike her. "Oh, you are so good," she exclaimed. And she went away with the trousers and shoes for the poor man who didn't have any legs.'

THE EMERSON PIANO

Stands and don't you forget it. The State Normal and Industrial College, Greensboro, N. C., bought the same piano in 1896, 1897 and 1900. Dr. McIver, who looks carefully after the interest of the college, gave all the dealers and branch piano houses a chance to compete and a number competed by pricing their pianos, while others put their pianos by the side of the old and tried. EMERSON, which came off victorious the third time. The Emerson piano will stand by and always give that satisfaction that pleases the owner. Call and see them.

FENCERS INCREASING

Implements for Their Use More in Demand Than Ever Before.

The Science of Handling the Foils Is Being Studied by Devotees of Both Sexes—Goods Made for Their Use.

"Fencing goods," said a dealer in such articles, according to the New York Sun, "are imported, some from France, but the greater part from Germany. The foil, made with a blade 32 inches in length for beginners, regulation length being 34, is made in very great variety as to details and manner of finish, including foils designed especially for women's use. There are two familiar standard kinds of guards for the foil, the figure 8 guard and the bell guard. These mountings are of iron, of steel and of brass, some polished and some nickel plated and sometimes engraved and gilded, the open guards being faced with leather of one kind and another, including elk skin.

The foil handles are produced in great variety, not only as to shape, but as to the materials used in them. They are covered with leather of various kinds, including shark skin. Some are covered with velvet, some with plush and some with wire. The handles are corded or wire wound, those of the costlier foils with silver or with gold wire. As to the shapes of the handles they are many; teachers of the various schools of fencing might prefer one this shape and another that; and individual fencers have their preferences, and of course men want handles suited to their hands.

The foil blades are made in lighter and in heavier weights, in various grades and in great variety as to finish, some polished and some blued, and blades are etched, and engraved, and gilded. Foils are sold not only for use in fencing, but for decoration purposes; some of the finest and most handsomely finished foils, variously ornamented, are put to such uses, and such foils are bought for presentation. Foils are of course produced at a great variety of prices. They are sold in pairs.

Then there are sold rapiers and fencing swords in a variety of styles. There are sold wooden broadswords for beginners in sword exercise; and there are also sold, for fencing practice, and for exercise, singlesticks, or fencing sticks, these being of wood, somewhat shorter and lighter and also cheaper than foils and having basket hilts.

While the foils and rapiers and swords are imported, almost all of the other fencing goods are made in this country. There are various kinds of fencing masks, including masks for foils, masks for stick and sword practice, and masks for sword and rapier practice, these being severally adapted to their special uses, and made, besides, each in some variety as to details of construction and manner of finish. Then there are of course fencing gloves for men and for women, for use with the foils, and for sword and rapier fencing. Then there are plastrons, made for the protection of the chest while fencing, these being of chamois skin, padded and quilted; and there are made plastrons for women, these being of plush and padded and quilted and made to fit.

There is a fencing vest and jacket for foil fencing, made of chamois skin, padded and quilted; and there are foil fencing jackets made of heavy linen. There are for sword or rapier exercise fencing jackets made of heavy duck and padded and quilted; and there are fencing belts and fencing slippers.

There are more fencers in this country now than ever before, including more women fencers than ever; and the number of fencers is all the time growing. Fencing is of course largely confined to cities and towns, but there are fencers all over the country. We sell fencing goods from New York to San Francisco and from St. Paul to New Orleans."

Freemen for the Slave Coast. A new century's promise comes for Africa. For the slave coast a party of four young colored men recently started, and they will reach their destination and begin their work practically with the opening of the new century. They have not gone as missionaries; they have not gone as the organizers of some utopian form of government; they have not gone as hunters or explorers.

With ten bushels of cotton seed, with a cotton gin and with a variety of agricultural implements, they have gone as twentieth century advance agents of a new African prosperity. The scheme is not heralded as being one for the advantage of the colored race, although anyone can see what great possibilities lie in it along that line. It is merely announced, without any undue display of confidence, that the venture is being made in order to open a new field for cotton-growing.—Saturday Evening Post.

Nearly 13,000 prisoners were liberated on the occasion of the new king of Italy's birthday. Forty thousand others were granted reductions in their sentences.—The Builder.

CENSUS OF LARGE CITIES.

Figures for the Twelve Leading Cities of the United States, Showing Population.

The census returns have now been announced for all the larger cities, with the percentages of increase over the figures of 1890. The highest percentage is that for Chicago, says the Tribune of that city. A comparative review of the results is interesting in many ways. Here are the figures for the 12 leading cities in the United States in the order of their present size:

	Inc.	Over	Per-
	Population.	1890.	cent.
New York	8,437,202	994,611	35.33
Chicago	1,698,575	598,725	54.44
Philadelphia	1,293,697	246,733	23.57
St. Louis	575,238	123,468	27.33
Boston	560,822	118,000	26.07
Baltimore	560,745	74,506	17.15
Buffalo	381,768	120,415	46.07
San Francisco	342,782	43,785	14.64
Cincinnati	325,902	28,994	9.77
Pittsburgh	321,616	82,999	34.78
New Orleans	287,104	45,066	18.62

The first six cities in this list stand in the same order as they did after the eleventh census. It may be that there is some disappointment in Boston because that city did not overtake St. Louis, which was only 3,293 ahead in 1890. But the Bostonians generally seem to be satisfied with the natural, healthy growth of their city, which has not been expanded by annexations. Considerable thickly-settled territory could have been taken in, but the conclusion has been reached that annexation does not pay. Certainly Boston has done better than that other commercial city, Baltimore, for whose slow rate of growth, much slower than for the preceding decade, no cause has yet been assigned.

Next to Cincinnati, the smallest percentage of gain is that of San Francisco, but as the decrease in growth is ascribed to the departure of a large number of Chinamen, the Pacific metropolis is inclined to take the matter cheerfully.

Throughout the table the rule holds good that the largest gains have been made by the cities with the largest manufacturing interests. Next to Chicago the greatest relative gainers have been Cleveland, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and New York. These cities are all thriving under the present national movement which is making the United States the greatest manufacturing country in the world, but not one can show the rate of growth achieved by Chicago. The conclusion is obvious. Chicago is destined to be the greatest manufacturing center in the United States.

LAST OF THE EXPOSITION.

Closing Night of the Great International Fair at Paris—Scenes and Incidents.

It was 6 o'clock. From the top of the Eiffel tower the cannon thundered, announcing the final stoppage of the number of admission tickets, says the Paris Courier des Etats Unis. The Chateau d'Eau blazed with volleys of light in constantly changing colors, and in the distance the Trocadero and all the buildings became illuminated, while the gardens displayed their garlands of translucent fruits. Then for the last time the crowd moved toward the luminous waters. It was cold and threatening snow; but that did not prevent the people from admiring their favorite spectacle. Suddenly the lights went out, and it was then only that the crowd realized that the end was reached. When all was comparatively dark in the Chateau d'Eau the people commenced to move out en masse through all the doors. The movement continued until 11 o'clock. Then another gun was fired. An immense clamor arose from the crowd, pierced by the shouts of "Vive la France," while the wind bore along from the distance the strains of the "Marseillaise" or the "Chant du Depart." Once more the gun was fired. It was the farewell gun, followed by the roll of drums that had somewhat of a sad echo in many hearts. It had a crashing sound under the vaults and continued gradually increasing until all the drummers appeared. Another guard came along, beating the retreat, followed by crowds more or less saddened by the thought that the grand affair was over. The exhibition was already a thing of the past. The cascades were extinguished, and one after another the domes of the different buildings disappeared in darkness. No lights remained, except here and there a few globes that gave out a soft orange-colored light. They reminded one of watch lights at the bedside of a dead woman. The great Paris fair, which closes for many years the era of expositions, passed into history.

The longest separate length of tunnel for the recently opened Central London railway driven was from the Westbourne shaft to the Marble Arch shaft, the distance being over 1,200 yards, and the work resulted in an error of only five-eighths of an inch at the point where a junction was effected with the tunnel driven by another firm of contractors. In two of the sections bore holes were put down into the tunnel for the purpose of testing the lines, but generally the lengths were driven through so accurately that no recourse to bore holes was found necessary.—The Builder.

A BIT OF CHEER.

Perchance you feel like sighing, dear, Just check the sigh and smile; And cheer some wayworn wanderer O'er many a weary mile.

A kindly word, a loving smile, Great blessings doth bestow;

The power have they to charm away,

A heavy load of woe.

Alas! the many aching hearts,

Along the circling years,

Through there be death of all things else,

Is never dearth of tears.

Then put aside thy griefs, dear heart,

Nor grudge to smile to dole;

'Twill cheer thine own sad lot, and bless

As well thy neighbor's soul.

For there was One whose spirit oft Was wrapped, methinks, in gloom. Before Him rose dark Calvary's cross.

The agony of the tomb.

And still He ever strove to cheer,

The wayworn pilgrim lone;

Jesus! Imperial Prince of Peace,

From Heaven's eternal throne!

Tis not the costly gift bestowed That cheers the aching heart, It is the kindly sympathy, It is love's magic art.

And blessed shall thy memory be,

Though naught thou hast to give

But kindly words and loving smiles;

And lo! thy soul shall live.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Glass, an employee of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardner, Me. He says: "I had kept adding to a cold and coughin the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the store of Mr. Houlehan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I got a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by C. E. Holton.

A MONSTER DEVIL FISH

Destroying its victim, is a type of constipation. The power of this murderous malady is felt on organs and nerves and muscles and brain. There is no health till it's overcome. But Dr. King's New Life Pills are a safe and certain cure. Best in the world for stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Only 25 cents at C. E. Holton's drug store.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of static or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

A FRIGHTFUL BLUNDER.

Will often cause a horrible burn, scald cut or bruise. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, will kill the pain and promptly heal it. Cures old sores, fever sores, ulcers, boils, felon, corns, all skin eruptions. Best pile cure on earth. Only 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by C. E. Holton.

The lingering cough following grippe calls for One Minute Cough Cure. For all throat and lung troubles this is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Prevents consumption. Howard Gardner.

Sexine Pills
TRADE

For years this remedy has been the standard nerve restorative. Thousands of happy men owe their newly found strength to its use.

Sexine Pills replace weakness and exhaustion with strength and vigor; the brain becomes clear; the nerves steady and calm; gloomy forebodings are banished and perfect vitality is fully restored.

If you are suffering as above, try a box; you'll be encouraged by its effect to take the full course of six boxes—then if you are not entirely cured, we will refund your money. This satisfactory offer is one of the factors of our success.

$1.00 per box; 6 boxes (with guarantee to cure or money back), $5.00, paid in plain packages. Book free. PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

AN HONEST MEDICINE FOR LA GRIPPE.

George W. Wait, of South Gardiner, Me., says: "I have had the worst cough, cold, chills and grip and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vendor. Chamberlain's Cough remedy is the only thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one bottle of it and the chills, cold and grip have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale by A. E. Holton's drug store.

Facilities Soon

To Be Installed:

Owing to the rapid growth of the "City of Flowers" I find it necessary to increase capacity for coming summer work. Will shortly add a new 50 horse power engine and 60 horse boiler, washing machine and mangle. These new machines added to present equipment will put the "Gate City" on an equal with any laundry in the south. Would call special attention to the new collar and cuff machine recently purchased which will give either gloss or domestic finish, by simply changing gear from left to right and vice versa. We give gloss finish unless otherwise notified. Give us a trial and be convinced that we can't beat. Hail white wagons or 'phone 176. Respectfully,

CARE OF YOUNG CHILDREN'S TEETH

Dental Office and Laboratory Journal

Very few mothers realize the necessity of caring for and properly preserving a child's first set of teeth, so that they shall drop naturally out of the jaw, without decay, when the time comes. As soon as the child is able to eat solid food the teeth should be taken note of. When the little one is three or four years old there will often be decayed spots in the teeth. These cavities should be treated at once by a dentist, and filled with soft, temporary cement that dentist use for this purpose. This care of the first teeth not only prevents the child's acute suffering from toothache, but it keeps the mouth in a cleanly, wholesome condition, which conduces to sound bodily health.

The presence in the mouths of little children of decayed teeth is given, on trustworthy authority, as a frequent cause of disease. Were it not for these reasons it would still be desirable to preserve them to the proper time, for where the teeth are removed too early the jaw does not enlarge further, and when the permanent teeth are cut there is no room for them. Children whose first teeth have been thoroughly cared for have stronger and better teeth when the permanent ones come. At least once in six month a mother should examine the teeth of her children with an eye to possible defects, and, when necessary, see a dentist without delay.

The Welfare of Employees.

Charlotte Observer.
It is the exception in the South, we believe, when cotton mill owners do not have sincerity at heart the interests and welfare of their employees. Our Greensboro correspondent yesterday stated that the Proximity Manufacturing Company has decided to establish and maintain a graded school for the benefit of the children of the mill employees and has already awarded the contract for a handsome school building containing an auditorium suitable for public gatherings. It is a highly commendable undertaking. The Atherton Cotton Mills of this city have had such a school, school building and auditorium for four years or longer and it has been satisfactory in every way.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning" writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought that she must soon die from pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying that it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of consumption. After three doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

COLD STEEL OR DEATH.

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. He didn't count on the marvellous power of Electric Bitters to cure stomach and liver troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. It's positively guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney troubles and never disappoints. Price 50c at C. E. Holton's drug store.

For the weakness and prostration following grippe there is nothing so prompt and effective as One Minute Cough Cure. This preparation is highly endorsed as an unfailing remedy for all throat and lung troubles and its early use prevents consumption. It was made to cure quickly.

RHEUMATISM | CATARRH — DISEASES CURED BY B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure and so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3-BS.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Locomotive Works and Car Shops of Country Unable to Fill Orders Fast Enough.

The locomotive works, as well as the car shops in this country, are overwhelmed with new orders. President Gallaway of the New York Central railroad says he is having difficulty in arranging for delivery of new locomotives, which are urgently needed on the Central system before next fall. Railroad men generally complain of the scarcity of freight cars and the lack of motive power. Although tens of thousands of new cars and hundreds of new locomotives have been built within the last two years, the abnormal growth of railroad traffic has surpassed even the steady increase in equipment. Western lines are constantly calling on their eastern connections for more cars with which to move freight eastward, but the eastern lines are not able to comply with more than half of these requests.

He is sleek and he is sly, Roguish twinkles in his eye, Quick to know and quick to see What may please or comfort me; More true friendship in his paw Than in words from human jaw.

Never doth he drop a sneer In some eager, itching ear, Coupled with some malice-word That he has in whispers heard Of the friend who gave him trust But to feel his dagger-thrust.

Honest, open, clean and clear Are his eyes, and not a fear Need one have that low or high His heart harbors lurking lie; Love unwarped by change or chance, Fortune, fate or circumstance.

Faith hath he unmixed with fear Though disgrace or death draw near, Sympathy and trust trust Though my hopes all turn to dust; Few the human friends who cling Like this one through everything.

What though thoughts he cannot speak, Love is long and words are weak;

His not airy, empty creeds,

His religion one of deeds.

He shall live though death bells toll,

Like myself though ages roll,

Love proves that he hath a soul.

POPULAR EMBROIDERIES.

Pretty Designs That Are Now in Favor with the Devotees of Dress.

The majority of the embroidered dresses just now are done on black or ercu lace, though some are on silk or satin; while a good peau de soie seems the favorite make, says a fashion authority. By lace must be understood the very wide valenciennes and other nets turned out by Norman and Nottingham looms, many of which take the entire length of a skirt and low bodice between the selvedges. They are far too fragile to be stretched in frames, and are simply tacked over the papers on which the designs are traced. These are so elaborate that several women work at once on the same dress, or it would never be finished in time, and they are generally quite independent of the pattern in the net itself. Some lay on straight or sinuous lines of black velvet, and others edge them with gold or silver braid, or with gold spangles, or tiny crystal beads, or all three. Vast quantities of fancy lace braids are also used, and delicate chainstitch traceries in the finest gold or silver thread. Many designs are arranged so as to leave vacant medallions, into which most exquisitely embroidered sprays of silken flowers on gossamer-like gauze are afterwards introduced. All is done by swift yet dainty fingers that never make a false or a loose stitch, and, as may be imagined, such work engrosses the whole attention, as the least suspicion of drawing the thread or puckering would be fatal.

Silken robes are cut and seamed into shape and stretched in frames. The favorite ornamentation just now is groups of single sprays of roses, both bud and blossom, and just enough foliage to give the graceful touch of nature, embroidered in such exquisite shades that they are no doubt often supposed to be painted. The connecting lines are done in tiny palleettes of many sparkling hues, and the flowers themselves are marvels of ingenuity. Small petals of pink or amber satin are laid on the silk and then covered with puffed morsels of white or pink silk gossamer gauze to form a raised blossom, sometimes centered or caught down with a single bead or spangle, but there is no visible stitch.

Occasionally a chintz gauze is employed, and to see it in the piece suggests nothing so much as a translucent slice cut out of a rainbow. In the case of a life-sized spray of rose leaves the underly is green satin, veiled with white gauze, and so delicately veined and shaded with silk as to give all the effect of water color.

Black and white for half mourning is also in great demand, and the dress executed in lace or gauze, with embroidery designs in sparkling lines of jet, silk and silver, and with motifs in black or white satin or velvet, much overlaid with white silk and fine chenille, are legion. The materials for these embroideries are got together from all parts of Europe and as carefully collected as curios, or even gems. A beautiful black lace skirt is covered with a design of bunches of lilac and wisteria leaves, all in black paillettes, and a very happy combination it is, for the wisteria foliage is graceful, and that of the lilac is heavy.

Aiguillettes or "dangles" are conspicuous in the trimmings of the day, and they are made separately or in groups, finished with gold, steel or jet ornaments.

Arabesque and other designs wrought in the "dented" pearls that so closely resemble real ones are much used, and are so made that they can be cut into complete separate parts. White and biscuit-colored cloths are embroidered in chainstitch with silk and tinsel threads that are gorgeous when seen separately, but combine into a very subdued yet rich-looking whole, for the cuffs, lapels and revers of tailor-made gowns.
